

Services to Criminal Justice Agencies

The Center for Gender and Justice assists local, state, and national crime justice agencies by providing expertise, leadership, technical assistance, and services in the following areas:

- System analysis: analyzes system readiness for gender-responsive approaches
- Policy review and development: reviews existing policies with respect to women and girls and assists in developing gender-responsive policies
- Strategic planning: provides technical assistance to jurisdictions for short- and long-term planning of gender-responsive approaches to policy and programs
- Program development: helps to develop gender-responsive and culturally sensitive services and programs for women and girls
- Training: provides technical assistance and training to administrators and line staff who work with women and girls in criminal justice settings
- Assessment: assesses the environment and content of programs in institutional and community-based settings
- Evaluation: develops outcome measures, evaluation designs, and data-collection instruments
